THE C. Q. BAND.

The painting of that really ornamental temple of music erected by the Copper Queen Band is complete and the building is about ready to shelter the boys during the hours of practice. The band has given ample evidence of its utility during the past campaign. It has met the candidates at the station, escorted them to the town, rendering delightful music for the people and patiently sat through long campaign speeches without a murmur. The boys have amply proved themselves to be musicians of no mean order. We have a band equal, probably, to anything of the kind in the territory.

This state of excellence has been acquired by long and persistent practice. It is the result, too, of hard work in the face of great difficulties.

Only by pure determined effort have the musicians accomplished what they have, and they have done it unaided by the public.

In the future Bisbee will show her appreciation of her possession of this good band and in every way will aid the boys to still further progress, and in the successful accomplishment of their desire to give Bisbee a really first class band.

GENERAL WESLEY MERRITT, who was our general in the Philippines, speaks highly of the Filipinos. He says they are kind and affectionate, faithful and tractable. They make good soldiers and can be disciplined readily. The Filipinos also make excellent servants, and many were anxious to accompany their masters back to America. This is an opinion worth considering. The administration will undoubtedly continue its policy in the Philippines, and when the horrors of a long and bloody course of subjugation is over these people will then receive the enlightened assistance, education and benign government of the United States.

SEVENTY-EIGHT percent of the men offering to enlist in the United States army have been refused on account of physical, mental or moral reasons. In all 69,694 men were refused. This is a subject for the consideration of those who make man and his condition their study. It is a fact that only the flower of the people are sent to the battlefield, but it is incredible that so small a percentage of our fellow creatures are anyway near perfect. So that in a day's march we see or shake hands with few men indeed, according to the strict army standard, who are physically, mentally or morally capable of becoming trained soldiers of the line.

SEWARD AVERTED WAR.

Sir E. J. Monson Says American Statesman Prevented Clash With Britain.

Sir Edmund J. Monson, the British ambassador at Paris, takes exception to Naval Lieutenant J. S. Trotter's ascribing the happy escape of Great Britain from war with the United States in the Sildell-Mason affair as due to Admiral Milne's influence on William H. Seward (then secretary of state under President Lincoln). The British ambassador, who was at that time an attaché of the British legation at Washington, writes to the Spectator: "The happy result of the negotiation was principally due to Mr. Seward, who was almost alone in the American cabinet in seeing that it was not only good policy, but consistent with the principles always held by the United States, to concede the demand of Great Britain. At this distance of time it can do no harm for me to state that that demand, as formulated by Lord Russell, was delivered to Mr. Seward by me, privately, Lord Lyons having charged me, after his first interview with Mr. Seward, to go at once to the state department and place a copy of Lord Russell's dispatch in the hand of the secretary of state for his official perusal."

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The bells of Peking, seven in number, weigh 120,000 pounds.

A Chicago firm has set up a line of automobiles to transport passengers between its store and one of the railroad stations for five cents.

In China the coinage is pierced with a square hole in the center, and in place of a purse John Chinaman carries a piece of string on which the coins are strung.

The average whale is from 50 to 65 feet in length and 35 feet in circumference. The jawbones are 20 to 25 feet long, and a tongue has been known to yield almost a ton of oil.

When the settlement of the Transvaal colonies is completed Bloemfontein will become the federal capital of South Africa and the residence of the governor general. Other governors will reside at Cape Town, Pietermaritzburg and Johannesburg.

Six German states are now governed by regents: The kingdom of Bavaria and the principality of Lippe Detmold on account of the insanity of their rulers; the principality of Reuss, of the younger line, where the prince has turned the government over to his son; the duchy of Brunswick, which is held by Prussia, pending a settlement with the house of Hanover, and the duchies of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, whose rulers are not yet of age.

A religious ceremony, incomprehensible to temperance people, took place recently at Fecamp, in Normandy, when the archbishop of Rouen blessed the new distillery buildings of the monastery where the Benedictine monks live. The cordial had been manufactured for two centuries when the French revolution broke out and the Benedictine monastery was destroyed. The recipe was saved by a family named Le Grand, and restored to the monks in 1863. A bronze statue to the Le Grand who revived the industry was unveiled before the benediction of the buildings.

SUMMER SANDWICHES.

Meat of All Kinds, Vegetables and Nuts Are Used in Their Composition.

Sandwiches are now served as a fashionable dish at teas and luncheons. Almost every variety of meat or vegetable, dressed with every variety of salad dressing, or without dressing of any kind, is used for sandwiches. Nuts have been recently used in this way. A cheap nut sandwich is made of the despoiled peanut, which is minced fine and spread between the most delicately thin slices of homemade bread, freed of its crust and delicately buttered.

English walnuts and pecan nuts may be used in the same way. The pecan nut sandwich is especially nice. These sandwiches should not be reserved for festive occasions, but should be used on the everyday table. They are especially nice served for the summer supper. Peanuts are known to be quite nutritious, and it is therefore much better to have them take the place of meat than the cold slices of vegetables dressed in mayonnaise and used in the same way, says the New York Tribune.

A lettuce salad dressed in mayonnaise is one of the best of these super sandwiches. Select very crisp, bleached leaves of lettuce. Dip them in a well-made, well-flavored mayonnaise dressing. Lay these leaves between thin slices of homemade bread, cut delicately thin.

Homemade bread made with "perpetual" yeast is an especially delicious moist bread, which is admirably adapted to sandwiches which require a firm but tender, moist bread. The potato water used in "perpetual" yeast seems to give the same moist texture that old-fashioned potato bread raised with a sponge had. It is the cheapest as well as the best bread. For sandwiches use it when it is about a day old.

Minces of chicken dressed with mayonnaise also make an excellent supper sandwich. So do sandwiches which may be heated a little and served as anchovy toast. Any cold, delicate meat sliced in very thin slices and seasoned with salt, pepper and a little piquant cold dressing of any kind may be used in this way. There is room for considerable agreeable surprise in the changes and various seasoning which may be devised in this dish.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CUBANS

Plans Made for an Institution at New York Where They Can Be Trained for Missionary Work.

Plans for a training school for Cubans have received the approval of the state board of charities and Justice Hooker, of the supreme court of New York. A certificate of incorporation has been filed in the Kings county clerk's office, Justice Hooker having ordered that it be placed on record. The institution will be known as the Cuban home and training school of New York. The objects will be to establish a home and training school for the care and education of Spanish-speaking children, whether born here or elsewhere, and to fit them for mission work in this and other lands; the school and home to have separate departments for both sexes. Rev. Josiah Strong, of Manhattan, and Rev. J. Howard Fairchild, of Brooklyn, will be at the head of the institution.

Merely a Suggestion.

The Chicago Times-Herald suggests that Dr. Harper might obtain some valuable pointers from Russell Sage concerning the possibilities of living on 15 cents a day.

Automobiles on English Farms. The automobile is to be turned to practical account by the farmers of Kent, England. Every year a large part of the fruit crop rots from lack of transportation, the railways not being able to meet the emergency, and the plan is for the farmers next year to take things in their own hands, starting motor cars round the orchards during the evening and night and bringing the day's pickings to London by the early morning. —N. Y. Sun.

"My boy," said Uncle Obadiah, "when you get ready to pick out a gal for a wife, pass up the prod-gal, and select one of the fru-gal sort that suits your conjugal notions." —Chicago Evening News.

TURKISH MINISTER'S WIFE.

Difficulty in Obtaining for Her in Washington the Seclusion Ordinances Required.

The Turkish minister to Washington finds it extremely difficult to seclude his wife as completely from public gaze as the customs of his country require. These difficulties have been greatly increased of late by the arrival at his home of a son and heir, for the curiosity to see "the little Turk" is overweening. The new baby has a wonderful wardrobe sent from Paris, the clothes in oriental designs and fabrics.

As no man may enter the apartments of a Turkish lady, madame is attended by Mrs. Jung, wife of the legation physician, who is herself a skilled doctor with diplomas from home and foreign schools.

In spite of the oriental ceremony and mystery with which "Ali Baby" is surrounded, he is being brought up, so far as essentials go, on a very American plan.

Mme. Furrough has with her her young sister-in-law, who has received with her the few times that madame has been in the legation parlor. No man, of course, attended these receptions. Mme. Furrough is a skilled horsewoman and her close confinement to the house in Washington has told upon her health.

The marriage of Ali Furrough Bey was a love match of the most ardent sort. When the minister was sent to America he left his beautiful wife in her native land, but returned as soon as possible and made the necessary arrangements for moving the household to America. To do this he was obliged to make a vow that the women folk should remain as secluded as in their Turkish home. Just how difficult that vow has been to keep any American will know.

Old Spiral Car Springs.

A use has been discovered for old spiral car springs. It has been found that these often contain enough carbon to permit of making cold chisels. Forging into the necessary form is easy and the additional carbon required may be added by the cementation process. Cold chisels made in this way cost half as much as the high grades of steel which were formerly used. —American Railroad Journal.

Terra Cotta Railroad Sleepers. On one of the Japanese railways terra cotta sleepers are used. They are far more durable than those of wood.
